

Pocket-book

Medium

leather

Description

Pocket book of soft light brown leather with a tie. Pressed and dried plant specimens slid between every 2nd folio of the bound pages which form a 1762 diary with accounts pages (unused). Small labels with samples - botanical names written in Henry Cuming handwriting. Inside the end paper are additional cloth, plant and a few animal specimens (feathers and a piece of reptile skin, possibly snake skin), with paper labels and small documents.