Basic Detail Report

Bowl

Date

45-400

Medium

Earthenware

Description

Half-fragment of a Roman bowl made from Samian ware pottery. It is thought to be a vinegar cup and was found near Holborn, London in 1864. Samian ware also known as terra sigillata was a very common type of Roman red pottery.

Dimensions

Object/Work: 45 x 90 mm