

Figurine

Date

1800-1900

Medium

Clay

Description

Small reddish earthenware figure of a woman. She is seated with arms crossed across her body, and is wearing a huipil. She wears a headdress in the form of folded cloth, or plaits doubled over to the centre with the ends sticking upwards. Mold made. Most probably a 19th century reproduction of a Precolumbian figurine.