

Basic Detail Report

Iron

Description

Rush light clip and socket for a candle. A rush light is a type of candle made by soaking the dried pith of the rush in fat or grease. It used to be a common source of light for poor people in Britain as they were inexpensive to make.

Dimensions

Object/Work: 190 x 70 x 20 mm

Rush-Light-Holder

Date
1850-1870

Medium